

Ion Cristea has been an international relations expert at the New Strategy Center since July 2023. He has a strong academic background in international relations, having earned a bachelor's degree from the West University of Timișoara (2018–2021) and a master's degree in International Relations from the University of Bucharest (2021–2023). He is currently pursuing a PhD at the Doctoral School of Political Science at the University of Bucharest. His academic path has been enriched by international mobility experiences at Università di Roma LUMSA (Italy) and Nicolaus Copernicus University in Toruń (Poland). Professionally, he has gained valuable experience through internships at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Moldova and the Institute for European Policies and Reforms (IPRE) in Chișinău. His research interests focus primarily on the domestic and foreign policy of the Russian Federation and Moscow's influence in the post-Soviet space. He is fluent in English and Russian.