

With a distinguished career spanning defense, diplomacy, and industry, Enrico Della Gatta is an accomplished senior executive specializing in geopolitics, strategic communications, and international leadership. Over more than 18 years across multinational organizations, government institutions, and defense industries, he has developed a reputation for navigating complex global dynamics, shaping strategic vision, and driving stakeholder engagement at the highest levels.

Since 2022, he has served as Vice President of Geopolitics & Advocacy at Fincantieri S.p.A., one of the world's leading shipbuilding groups. In this role, he leads geopolitical risk assessments, strategic positioning, and international market expansion while advising senior leadership on global industry trends, defense diplomacy, and investment opportunities. He plays a key role in strengthening the company's international influence through partnerships, innovation initiatives, and institutional engagement.

Prior to joining Fincantieri, he served within the European External Action Service (EEAS) as Strategic Communications Advisor to the Chairman of the EU Military Committee, the highest military authority within the European Union framework. There, he delivered strategic communication campaigns, policy advisories, and high-level analyses to support defense diplomacy and global stakeholder relations.

Between 2016 and 2020, he held the position of Chief Communications Officer (CCO) at Difesa Servizi S.p.A., a strategic company of the Italian Ministry of Defence. In this executive role, he led corporate communication strategy, reputation management, branding, and public affairs across multiple sectors, including aerospace, real estate, licensing, and renewable energy.

His earlier career includes a series of high-responsibility roles within the Italian Armed Forces and NATO, serving as:

- Media Relations Lead to the Chief of the Italian General Staff
- Public Information Officer for the Italian Army
- Public Affairs Officer with NATO in Kosovo
- Company Commander and Deputy Commander under the Italian Army and United Nations missions in Lebanon (UNIFIL)

Through these assignments, he developed critical leadership, crisis management, and communications expertise while operating in multinational environments and complex security contexts.